The next generation of Milwaukee Brewers baseball is here, shining a spotlight on those who have supported and sustained the team for 50 years in Milwaukee: our fans, our city and the state of Wisconsin. The team's new look restores a logo that is deeply rooted in the Milwaukee community and the team's storied past: a modernized version of the iconic ball-in-glove which was first introduced in 1978.

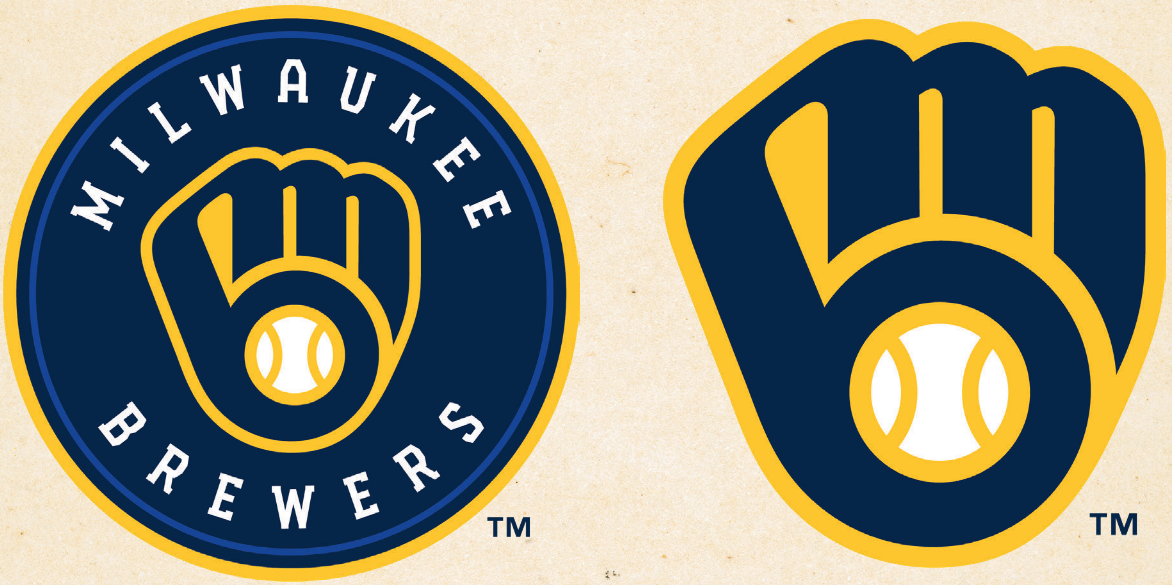
>>>HONORING A LONGSTANDING LOVE AFFAIR BETWEEN THIS TEAM AND ITS FANS.

As we enter the next era of Brewers Baseball, we pay tribute to a storied relationship with our fans while looking forward to an even brighter future together.

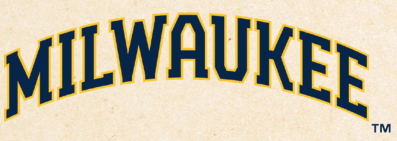
WE HONOR EVERY ERA OF OUR HISTORY WITH OUR NEW LOGO

New icons, typefaces and modern adaptations of beloved past marks honor a storied history of baseball in Wisconsin. The new Brewers logo connects our past to the present, interweaving elements from prior logos with a modernized industrial aesthetic.



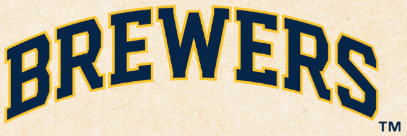
PRIMARY LOGO

We honor our fans – our biggest inspiration – by restoring the one true mark they love, cherish and proudly call their own.



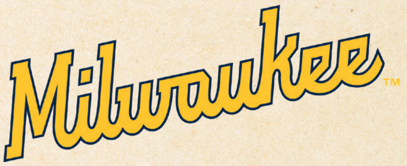
MILWAUKEE INDUSTRIAL WORDMARK

The block front was specifically designed as an homage to the proud industrial heritage that is the foundation of the city's present, past and future.



BREWERS INDUSTRIAL WORDMARK

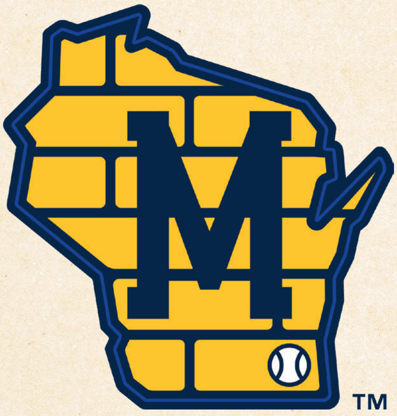
The block font was specifically designed as an homage to Milwaukee's proud industrial heritage – the foundation of the city's past and still a vital part of our present and future.

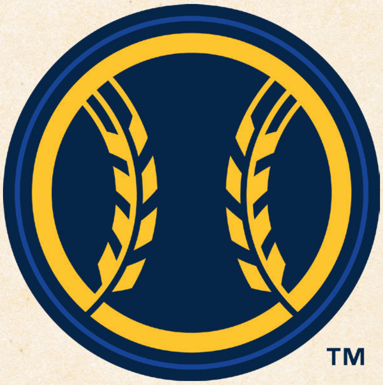


MILWAUKEE MODERN HERITAGE

A derivative of the Milwaukee industrial font, the Modern Heritage Wordmark features special script lettering in recognition of script typefaces throughout Brewers and MLB history.

WE HONOR EVERY ERA OF OUR HISTORY WITH OUR NEW LOGO



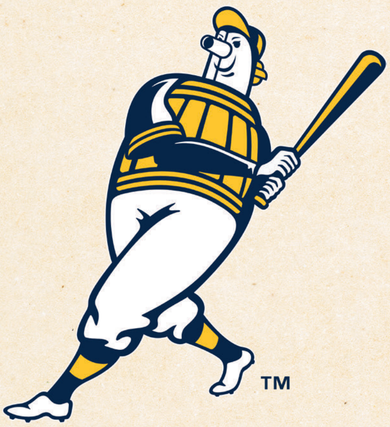


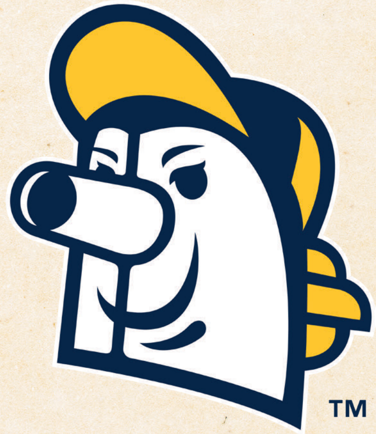
STATE ART

Based on the 1970 original, this new version of the Wisconsin State art features Cream City brick, an Industrial "M" and a baseball for Milwaukee.

WHEAT BALL

A brand-new mark, the Wheat Ball is inspired by wheat from past Brewers logos to honor Milwaukee's brewing tradition.





FULL BARRELMAN

Derived from the vintage Brewers Barrelman logo, this refreshed Barrelman proudly represents our team's origins.

PARTIAL BARRELMAN

New colors and modified details in Barrelman's uniform and face renew our mascot for today's team.

BREWERS NAVY

Navy Blue is at the center of our identity. We've proudly worn it for 26 years – an era featuring four postseason appearances, two division titles, two MVPs and the opening of Miller Park. It remains the anchor in our color palette going forward.

BREWERS YELLOW

One of the Brewers' original colors, Yellow returns as a key ingredient of our identity system. Brewers Yellow represents both our city's rich brewing legacy and joyful nature.

BREWERS ROYAL

As a nod to the era (1978-1993) that produced two MVPs, two postseason berths and a World Series appearance, vintage Royal Blue is subtly featured within the borders of the Global Icon, State Art and Wheat Ball.

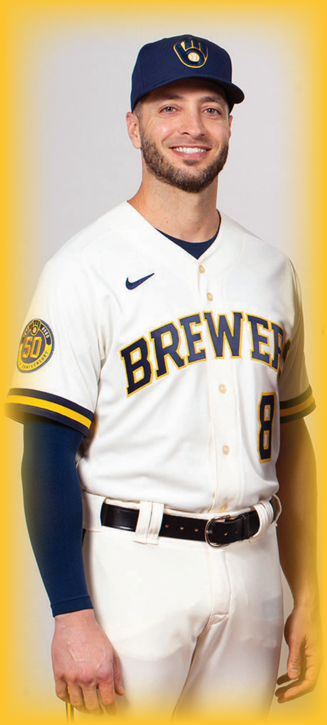
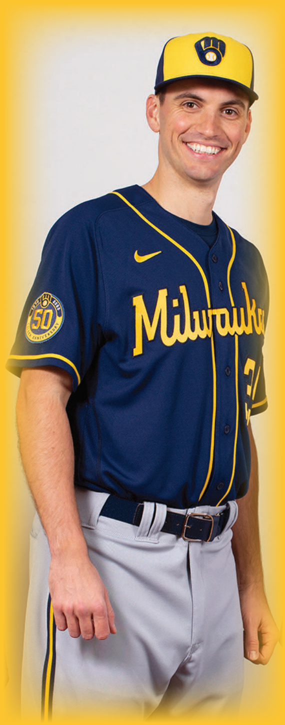
A STORIED TRADITION OF BREWERS BASEBALL IN WISCONSIN

New uniforms prominently feature vintage and symbolic design elements as a contemporary take on our roots: the cream edition is an homage to the Cream City; the pinstripe edition is a nod to baseball history; our two road uniforms proudly read Milwaukee across their chest and display the Wisconsin state outline on their sleeve – much as we wear our heart on our sleeve every time we take the field.



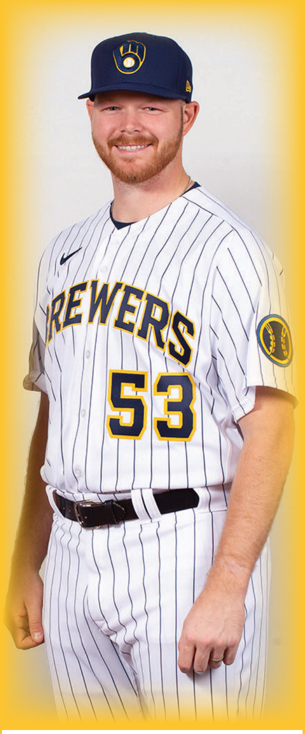
HOME CREAM >>

The new primary home uniform's Cream color proudly represents our home – the Cream City. The uniforms also feature elements from the 1970s uniforms, including a thick sleeve trim with the Brewers Blue and Yellow.



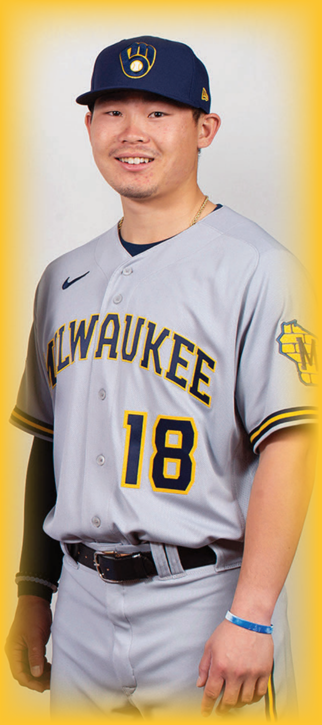
ROAD NAVY >>

The Road Navy features the Brewers Industrial script as a nod to baseball history and our hard-working roots. It's also highlighted by a two-tone hat, Brewers Yellow on the front panel as a nod to our road uniform 1978-1989.



HOME PINSTRIPE >>

A modernized version of the 1978-1989 pinstripes, this alternate uniform recognizes the significance of pinstripes throughout both Brewers and Major League history.



ROAD GRAY >>

The Road Gray proudly reads "Milwaukee" across its chest and features a State Art patch – each symbolic of our duty to represent our home with pride.

THIS IS WHAT THE FUTURE LOOKS LIKE.

THIS IS THE NEW ERA OF BREWERS BASEBALL. THIS IS FOR YOU, WISCONSIN.

We are Wisconsin's team. For 50 years, we've sought to live up to all that stands for; to be the living embodiment of our city's strength and represent our home with integrity, humility and passion. We are determined to make the entire state proud in everything that we do.

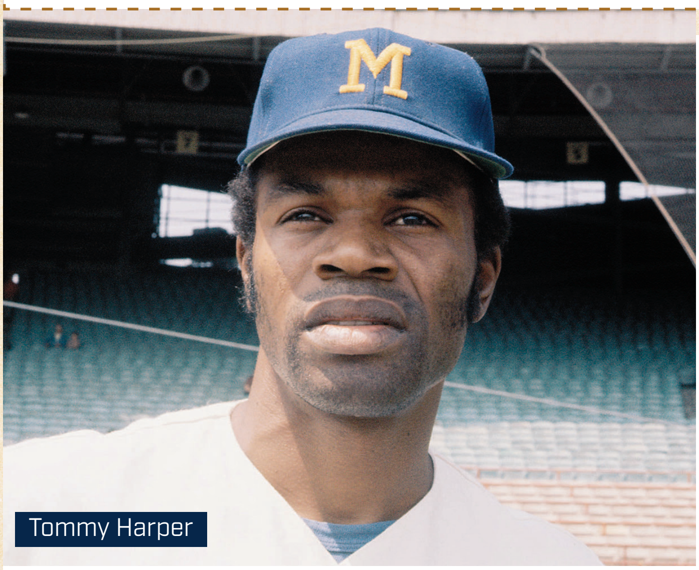
A FOND REMEMBRANCE OF THE 1970 BREWERS & BASEBALL'S RETURN

BY DENNIS SELL



Tommy Harper

Ted Savage

On the evening of March 31, 1970, a bankruptcy court in Seattle awarded the bankrupt Seattle Pilots to an ownership group led by Allan H. "Bud" Selig and Edmund Fitzgerald.

After five years of false hopes and repeated frustrations, Milwaukee was back in the big leagues. The Pilots were renamed the Brewers, a popular name in Milwaukee and a tribute to the city's long association with the brewing industry.

"We're Big League Again" proclaimed the banner headline in the April 1 edition of The Milwaukee Journal. "Baseball to Return Here" trumpeted that day's Milwaukee Sentinel.

A boisterous, cheering crowd of 8,000 jammed the Milwaukee airport terminal to welcome the team when it arrived on Sunday night, April 5. Two days later, a crowd of 37,237 attended the opener at a newly awakened County Stadium. The return of Major League Baseball to Milwaukee was big news around the country. There were 250 requests for press credentials for the 65-seat press box capacity. All three television networks—CBS, ABC and NBC—brought in crews. The Sentinel assigned 15 reporters to the event, including one to interview visiting reporters in the press box!

Danny Walton instantly became the early season hero of the "True Blue Brew Crew," a collection of grade, high school, and college students who populated the left field bleachers. Walton acknowledged their cheers by waving and giving the peace sign. He further ingratiated himself to the fandom by publicly stating that his boyhood hero was former Milwaukee slugger Eddie Mathews. The fans displayed "Dangerous Danny" and "Walton Fan Club" banners. Walton began the season on a home run binge with eight home runs in his first 21 games. On June 30, Walton blasted his 14th and 15th round-trippers.

General Manager Marvin Milkes kept churning the roster throughout the season. A total of 45 players had worn the Brewers' uniform by the season's end, nearly double the standard 25-man roster. Milkes' best acquisition was veteran outfielder Ted Savage from Cincinnati. Savage batted .279 with an OPS of .884, not to mention providing much needed veteran leadership. Milkes' most unusual trade occurred between games of a Sunday doubleheader on May 10 at County Stadium. Reserve outfielder Wayne Comer delivered a walk-off single to give Milwaukee a 6-5 win over the Washington Senators, only to be traded to the team he had just beaten before the second game began!

Milkes also assisted in developing promotions and came up with a dandy in early July. Marvin would have someone live in the specially constructed, fully equipped trailer atop the 80-foot scoreboard in right field until the Brewers drew a crowd of 40,000. The first candidate was Larry La Pidus, a 25-year-old intern in the media relations area, who declined the opportunity. Milkes then selected Milt Mason, a 69-year-old retired navy aviation engineer from San Diego, who was dubbed "Bernie Brewer." Mason descended from his perch on Sunday, August 16, 40 days later, when Gus Gil sent 44,387 fans home happy with a walk-off single. Unfortunately, Mason suffered severe rope burns as he slid down.

"Brew-Bear" was another stadium attraction. A person dressed in a bear costume distributed candy kisses and other goodies to the youngsters.

Manager Dave Bristol, a 36-year-old tobacco chewing native of the Smoky Mountains with a distinctive southern accent, had his team hustling and improving as the season progressed. An amazing 12 of the team's 65 victories were walk-off wins. The Brewers were involved in 61 one-run games, 38% of the 162 games, winning 28. The team played nearly .500 baseball during the final two months of the season, finishing in a tie for fourth place in the six-team AL Western Division.

Third baseman Tommy Harper was the team's hitting star with a .296 batting average, .377 on-base percentage and a .899 OPS. With his team-leading 31 home runs and 38 stolen bases, Harper became just the fifth player in Major League history to hit 30+ HR and steal 30+ bases. Nicknamed "Tailwind Tommy" by Brewers radio announcer Merle Harmon, Harper also topped the Brewers with 179 hits, 104 runs, 35 doubles and 82 RBI.

Milt Mason

Mike Hegan

Ted Kubiak played a solid shortstop, leading the team with six triples and 13 sacrifice bunts. Kubiak's lasting contribution to Brewers history, however, occurred in a Saturday, July 18 contest at Boston's historic Fenway Park. With RBI singles in the second and sixth frames, an RBI double in the eighth, and a ninth inning grand slam, Kubiak finished with 7 RBI. Although nine other players have since equaled Ted's total 11 times during the eras of "Bambi's Bombers," "Harvey's Wallbangers," and in the power-hitting teams in the years following, no one has surpassed Kubiak's record in the succeeding 50 years.

As the season progressed, Marty Pattin emerged as the Brewers' number one pitcher, finishing with a 14-12 record, a 3.39 ERA and 11 complete games in his 29 starts. Lew Krausse, who pitched a three-hit shutout in his first big-league start as an 18-year-old bonus baby for the Kansas City Athletics in 1961, notched 13 wins, including the first shutout in Brewers history, a 1-0 decision over the White Sox on July 7.

Although he didn't join the team until Memorial Day, Ken 'Bulldog" Sanders soon became the team's top reliever, compiling a 5-2 record with a 1.75 ERA and 13 saves in 50 games. First baseman Mike Hegan, one of the more popular players on the team, secured an off-season position as a sportscaster on WTMJ-TV. On September 3, 1976, he would became the first player in team history to hit for the cycle. Following his retirement, Mike served as a television announcer for the team in the late 1970s and 1980s. Phil Roof, who hit a ninth inning game-winning home run at Minnesota on September 8, became the first player to play for both the Milwaukee Braves and Milwaukee Brewers.

Despite arriving in Milwaukee less than a week before the start of the season, the Brewers drew 933,690 fans to County Stadium.

Fifty years later, the Brewers have had 877 players who have worn their colors since Major League Baseball returned to the Cream City in 1970.

BREWERS FANS CELEBRATE 50 YEARS WITH THE ICONIC 'MR. BASEBALL'

BY TOM ANDREWS

He's the Dean of Deadpan. King of the perfectly timed one-liner and the contagious laugh.

He's been taking us out to the ballpark for Brewers baseball for a half century, weaving his self-deprecating humor and baseball lore into the fabric of his Hall of Fame caliber radio play-by-play style. He's as comfortable as your favorite pair of jeans in almost any situation, from the broadcast booth to television, sitting next to Johnny Carson on The Tonight Show over 100 times, hosting Saturday Night Live, starring in Mr. Belvedere, as Harry Doyle in Major League or pitching Miller Lite in a set of TV commercials that are legendary unto themselves.

> “ANYBODY WITH ABILITY CAN PLAY IN THE BIG LEAGUES. TO LAST AS LONG AS I DID WITH THE SKILLS I HAD AND WITH THE NUMBERS I PRODUCED WAS A TRIUMPH OF THE HUMAN SPIRIT.”
> - BOB UECKER
> CATCHER IN THE WRY (1982)

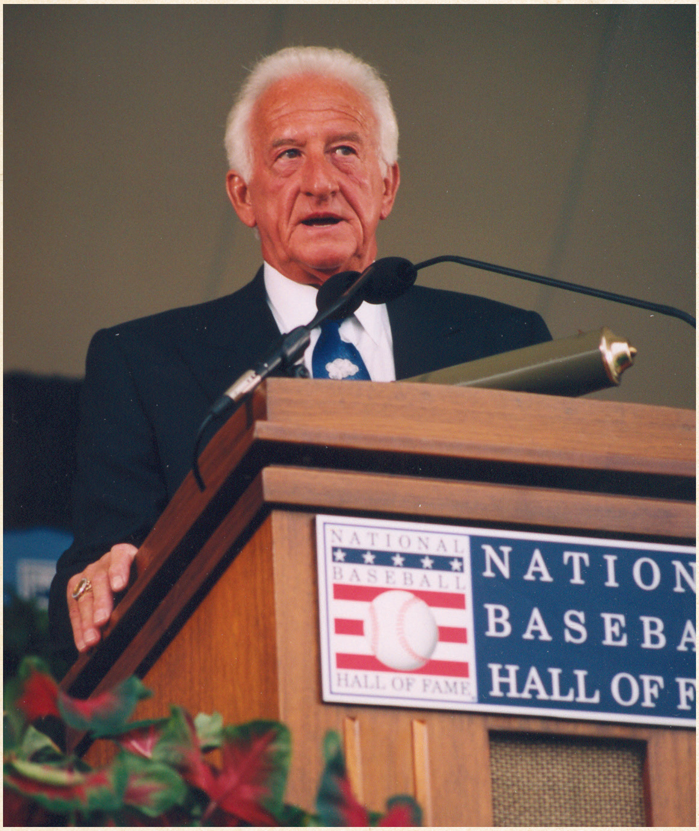
He’s also the guy you’d just love to tailgate with and talk baseball over a brat and a beer. When he cracks a smile, looks you right in the eye and gives you that familiar, “Hey, Buddy! How ‘ya doin’?” you can’t help but feel good, no matter how your day might be going. Robert George “Bob” Uecker just has that kind of effect on people and Milwaukee baseball fans have been richer for it.

As the Brewers usher in their 50th anniversary season in Milwaukee, Mr. Baseball also celebrates two prestigious anniversaries of his own. Now in his 65th year in baseball, the Milwaukee native amazingly also celebrates his 50th season as radio play-by-play virtuoso along the Brewers Radio Network.

If there’s an award to be had, Uecker probably owns it. His radio peers honored him with induction into the Radio Hall of Fame in 2001. Two years later, he earned the prestigious Ford C. Frick Award and is immortalized at the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown. He’s been named Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year five times, was inducted into the National Association of Broadcasters Hall of Fame, is a member of the Brewers Walk of Fame and Wall of Honor, the Milwaukee Braves Historical Association Wall of Honor and has not one but two statues dedicated to him at Miller Park.



for a .360 average and drove in eight runs. He was also behind the plate when Hall of Fame lefty Warren Spahn set an all-time record for southpaws, winning his 327th game. In that same game, Uecker got three hits and drove in the tying and winning runs. What's more, despite his lifetime .200 average, there was one pitcher that he befuddled: Dodger Hall of Famer Sandy Koufax. Uecker's lifetime average in over 50 at-bats against the dominant lefty was .429, including a solo home run against the three-time Cy Young winner in 1965.

When Uecker's playing days were over he still very much wanted to be connected to baseball. In 1971, then-Brewers owner Allan H. (Bud) Selig asked him about broadcasting and coming to work for the Brewers. Since there were no immediate openings on the broadcast team, Uecker started out as a scout.

"I've often told the story that Bob's scouting career came to an end when Frank Lane, who was then the general manager, sent Bob up to scout in the old Northern League," Selig recalls with a laugh. "(Bob) did and Frank came back in my office about a week later and said, 'What the hell is this?' I said, 'I don't know what you're talking about' and he said, 'This is a scouting report from your guy, Uecker, and it's got mashed potatoes and gravy all over it!' And it did – literally."

So the scouting career crashed but there were still opportunities in public relations for the team and public speaking. Through

"I SIGNED WITH THE MILWAUKEE BRAVES FOR THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS. THAT BOTHERED MY DAD AT THE TIME BECAUSE HE DIDN'T HAVE THAT KIND OF DOUGH. BUT HE EVENTUALLY SCRAPED IT UP."

Looking back on his amazing career it doesn't take Uecker long to cut right to the chase – baseball is his first love.

"Well it's 65 years overall, playing and broadcasting and being with the Crew for 50," said Uecker. "I'm like everybody else. I'm like the players; I'm like all of our employees. I want to win all the time. And when we don't – and going back to those early years in the '70s when it was an expansion club coming out of Seattle – things were not easy all the time. It was tough sometimes, but I don't think there's ever been a time when I didn't enjoy my job doing what I do and doing what we do in the broadcast booth."

Uecker takes special pride in his heritage.

"To be born and raised here – I was the first Milwaukeean to play for the Milwaukee Braves, which was really great. But I was also the first Milwaukeean to be sent to the minor leagues by the Braves, so that kind of wiped that out," Uecker jokes.

Uecker played six seasons in the majors between the Milwaukee/Atlanta Braves, St. Louis Cardinals and Philadelphia Phillies, winning a World Series with the Cardinals in 1964. He says he knew his career was over in 1967, when "my baseball card came out with no picture."

Uecker's made a living poking fun of his playing days but, to be fair, he had his moments. At the tail end of the 1962 season he caught six of the Braves' last seven games and collected nine hits it all, however, Selig just knew Uecker was destined for the broadcast booth.

“I use my instincts for various things in baseball and he had a good voice and I know he loved to announce,” said Selig. “I just thought to myself, knowing his personality since I’ve known Bob for a long time, ‘He ought to fit in well as an announcer.’ But Bob has made himself into a great announcer, there’s no question about it.”

Fifty seasons behind the microphone is an astounding length of time to be at the top of one’s broadcasting game, vividly bringing the game action along with its myriad nuances. Making the listener believe that he or she is right there at the ballpark, no matter how far away they may actually be, something his counterparts in the television booth respect and admire.

“Artist. Yeah, he’s an artist,” says play-by-play man Brian Anderson. “He’s a comedic genius. You can tell how funny he is. It just oozes out of him. He doesn’t associate with media. He thinks of himself as a player still and yet his skill and his technique on the air, his play-by-play mechanics are flawless. He’s almost this crazy confluence of natural-gifted talent with this intuition for the game that’s unmatched. I think when you put all of that together he’s just an artist. He’s a Picasso of baseball broadcasting for me.”

“I know that there are a lot of great baseball people out there and we all love the game but I honestly don’t know a person that loves the game of baseball, the city of Milwaukee and the Milwaukee Brewers more than Bob Uecker,” adds color man Bill Schroeder. “Sometimes a broadcaster will try extra hard in a bad game when it’s 8-0 in the second inning and the Brewers are down. You can’t make a bad game good. You can make a good game bad by talking too much but Bob Uecker is the one exception to that rule because a lot of people think that’s when he’s at his best. He’s been a great game caller all of his career. He doesn’t miss a trick and he sprinkles in analytics, analysis of the game as well as the play-by-play. He’ll mix in stories which is a unique talent and he doesn’t miss a pitch. For us normal guys to try to make a bad game good you’re going to make yourself look bad. But Bob Uecker can do that, make a bad game good.”

Amazingly, Uecker has never had a contract with the Brewers. Just a handshake agreement every year for 50 years!

“Bob Uecker is crucially important to the franchise,” added Selig. “He’s the voice that talks to the fans every day and they’ve grown to really love him. We talk about self-effacing humor but you listen to games that get really tense near the end in the seventh, eighth or ninth innings and he’s one hell of an announcer. He’s just outstanding. People sometimes don’t really understand that. He’s been incredibly loyal to the Brewers, Milwaukee and Wisconsin. I know Bob had other offers but doing Brewers games was always to him the best and most important. The wonderful loyalty to Milwaukee, Wisconsin and the Brewers – there are a lot of things I love about Bob but that’s one thing that should never be forgotten.”

A lot happens during the course of 65 years. Can Mr. Baseball distill it down to his favorite moment of all-time?

“I don’t think there is one particular moment,” Uecker says. “The game in Chicago was an unbelievable moment for us [Game 163 in 2018]. When you’re on the field, you’re in a different entity, playing and being able to jump up and down, do the stuff that they do when they win. That was huge.

“The things that I remember are winning seasons, games where I remember a couple times where they told me if I didn’t come down to the clubhouse after the game, they were going to come up to the booth and dump stuff on me up there, and I didn’t want to wreck a good booth,” quips Uecker. “It was always downstairs and the feeling of the camaraderie with all of them, that’s something I’ll never forget. I don’t forget those times, I really don’t. To be able to be a part of it on a couple of occasions, but I would love to be around for that finale when they could win and they could say world champions. That would be my lifetime dream with Milwaukee.”

LINDBLOM ANXIOUS TO MAKE MOST OF SECOND CHANCE

During five seasons in the Korean Baseball Organization, Josh Lindblom learned to read Korean and developed a taste for Yukgaejang, a spicy beef soup.

More importantly, Lindblom came into his own as a starting pitcher.

With the Seoul-based Doosan Bears the last two seasons, Lindblom went 35-7 with a 2.68 ERA in 56 starts, winning consecutive Choi Dong-won Awards (the KBO equivalent of the Cy Young Award). He earned the league MVP in 2019 after going 20-3 with a 2.50 ERA in 30 starts for the KBO Series champion Bears. Lindblom led the KBO in wins, strikeouts (189), WHIP (0.997), opponents batting average (.226) and innings pitched (194.2), while ranking second in ERA.

That performance caught the attention of the Brewers, who signed the 32-year-old right-hander to a three-year contract in mid-December as part of the overhaul of the starting rotation.

"We identified Josh pretty early on as someone who's going to be of interest to us," Brewers President of Baseball Operations and General Manager David Stearns said Jan. 26 at the team's On Deck event in Milwaukee. "Plainly spoken, Josh has been one of the most dominant pitchers in the world over the last couple of years."

After trading away Zach Davies and Chase Anderson and losing Jordan Lyles and Gio Gonzalez to free agency, the Brewers signed Lindblom and left-hander Brett Anderson as free agents and acquired lefty Eric Lauer in a trade with San Diego.

BY SUSAN SHEMANSKE

"Looking at what he did in Korea, we feel his skills and how he does it can translate to the United States, so we're very excited to have him on our team," Stearns said of the 6-foot-4 Lindblom, who joined 2019 All-Star Brandon Woodruff, Adrian Houser, Anderson and Lauer in the rotation to start the season.

Lindblom is equally excited to be with the Brewers – especially considering the route he took to get back to the major leagues. "I think this is a very good fit for me," said Lindblom, who makes his offseason home in his native Lafayette, Ind., with his wife, Aurielle, and their three children: Presley, 6, Palmer, 5, and Monroe, 3. "They throw the word family around here a lot and it does feel that way. Just to have 26 guys that are committed to win a championship and working toward that goal is what I'm really excited about."

A second-round draft pick of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 2008 out of Purdue University, Lindblom acknowledges he probably wouldn't be back in the majors had he not gone to Korea after the 2014 season. Lindblom was 5-8 with a 4.10 ERA and one save in 114 career games (six starts) with the Dodgers, Philadelphia, Texas and Oakland from 2011-14 and a brief stint with Pittsburgh in 2017.

In five seasons in Korea – he spent the first three seasons with the Lotte Giants of Busan – Lindblom went 63-34 with a 3.55 ERA in 130 games (all starts). He returned to the States for part of the 2017 season while his daughter Monroe, who was born with a heart defect, was undergoing her second surgery.

"I'm so grateful for my time in Korea because it has made me who I am as a pitcher," Lindblom said. "It allowed me to grow and evolve."

"I've taken a very roundabout way to get here, a few extra thousand miles along the way. When I went to Korea, I knew that if I wanted to come back to Major League Baseball, I had to be the best pitcher in Asia and I think I accomplished that goal. I worked hard, I committed myself to a process and it paid off."

Lindblom made the most of his time in Korea, adding a split-fingered fastball and cutter to his repertoire and learning to trust his stuff. Lindblom's No. 1 pitch is a four-seam fastball that averages 91 mph, but has an excellent spin rate. He also throws a curveball and changeup and worked on "more of a true slider" this offseason.

Lindblom likens his repertoire to a toolbox. "The more tools you have, the better job you can do, the more options you have," he said.

Will it be a difficult adjustment coming back to the majors, where the competition is at a higher level? Lindblom knows it will be a process learning new hitters and working with new catchers. But he is approaching this opportunity with the confidence that comes with success.

"I know who I am as a pitcher, I know how to get outs," Lindblom said. "I know the things I need to do to get better and I'm committed to that process of making adjustments and learning and growing. And that's what baseball is anyway, it's a game of adjustments."

INDICATION AND IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

WHAT IS VASCEPA?

VASCEPA is a prescription medicine used:

- along with certain medicines (statins) to reduce the risk of heart attack, stroke and certain types of heart issues requiring hospitalization in adults with heart (cardiovascular) disease, or diabetes and 2 or more additional risk factors for heart disease.
- along with a low-fat and low-cholesterol diet to lower high levels of triglycerides (fats) in adults.

It is not known if VASCEPA changes your risk of having inflammation of your pancreas (pancreatitis).

It is not known if VASCEPA is safe and effective in children.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

WHO SHOULD NOT TAKE VASCEPA?

- Do not take VASCEPA if you are allergic to icosapent ethyl or any of the ingredients in VASCEPA.

WHAT ARE THE POSSIBLE SIDE EFFECTS OF VASCEPA?

VASCEPA may cause serious side effects, including:

- Heart rhythm problems (atrial fibrillation and atrial flutter). Heart rhythm problems which can be serious and cause hospitalization have happened in people who take VASCEPA, especially in people who have heart (cardiovascular) disease or diabetes with a risk factor for heart (cardiovascular) disease, or who have had heart rhythm problems in the past. Tell your doctor if you get any symptoms of heart rhythm problems such as feeling as if your heart is beating fast and irregular, lightheadedness, dizziness, shortness of breath, chest discomfort or you faint.
- Possible allergic reactions if you are allergic to fish or shellfish. Stop taking VASCEPA and tell your doctor right away or get emergency medical help if you have any signs or symptoms of an allergic reaction.
- Bleeding. Serious bleeding can happen in people who take VASCEPA. Your risk of bleeding may increase if you are also taking a blood thinner medicine.

Celebrate 25% risk reduction with VASCEPA® when added to a statin*

*In a study, patients treated with VASCEPA had fewer cardiovascular events (17.2%) compared to those who took placebo (22%).

Taking statins, exercising, and eating right can lower your risk of a heart attack or stroke, but not as much as you may think. Prescription VASCEPA can also reduce your risk.

VASCEPA is clinically proven to offer 25% less risk from heart attack and stroke when added to a statin.

>>>MILLER PARK

The Milwaukee Brewers take pride in offering the best overall experience for every fan who attends a game. Central to the quality of the fan experience is the team's jewel of a ballpark, Miller Park, embarking on its 20th season.

The home of the Brewers debuted on April 6, 2001. In front of President George H.W. Bush, Commissioner Selig and many more dignitaries, the Milwaukee Brewers and Cincinnati Reds christened Miller Park in a thrilling game, culminating with a game-winning home run from Richie Sexson in the bottom of the eighth inning. On that day, President Bush became the first sitting president to attend a professional sporting event in the state of Wisconsin. He, along with Commissioner Selig, threw out ceremonial first pitches prior to the game.

Now, in its 20th season, the Brewers have played over 1,500 regular-season games at Miller Park (1,542 to be exact), with a record of 814-728 (.528). The team has also hosted 14 postseason games inside Miller Park, going 9-5 in such contests.

Since opening, the Brewers have welcomed nearly 50 million fans (49,262,539) to Miller Park. And, though this season is unlike any other in the history of the franchise, the Milwaukee Brewers proudly salute the team's loyal fanbase for helping make Miller Park such a memorable place for all to enjoy. THANK YOU!

NOT TO BE DENIED!

LORENZO CAIN FINALLY STRIKES GOLD

BY MARIO ZIINO

What proved to be a rallying cry from the outset last season rang loud and clear when it came time to vote for the best defensive center fielder in the National League.

Not today was the message that echoed throughout ballparks each time the Brewers' athletic leaper, Lorenzo Cain, made a game-saving or home run-robbing catch. And like a trumpet call that unified the masses, the inference was understood as the season progressed.

"I'm always on a mission," Cain said. "To make plays you have to have the opportunities. So, I got a lot of opportunities to make plays last year."

As one of the top defensive outfielders in the game who consistently awed crowds from coast to coast, no longer would he be overlooked for the coveted prize. For in 2019, Cain's daring defense would not be denied.

"I go out with the same intensity, and I make plays with the same attitude and try to catch everything," he added.

Cain made it nearly impossible this time — his 10th season in the big leagues — to be passed over, again, for the elusive and prestigious Rawlings Gold Glove Award.

"It's something I've wanted for a while," he admitted. "I almost gave up on it. I didn't think it would ever happen.

"I'm glad and proud I finally won it. I'll keep making the plays no matter what. But, I must admit, it feels good being recognized for my play in the outfield."

Cain not only played a stellar defense, but was a catalyst in the Brewers repeat trip to the postseason. He helped jumpstart the team's winning ways in April by putting an exclamation point on his star-studded performance in the outfield not once, not twice, but three times in that first month of the season alone, earning Major League Baseball's 'Play of the Week' each time.

In all, his five homer-saving catches in 2019 tied for the most ever in a single season as documented by Baseball Info Solutions, which began tracking sensational defensive plays 15 years ago. Cain's accomplishment matched the best total first set by the Astros' Josh Reddick, who primarily played right field.

LORENZO CAIN

"I've never robbed five home runs before," Cain shared. "But like I said, I got the opportunities and made the best of them. I think robbing the first homer in the opener last season said something."

Cain is only the sixth Brewers player to win a Gold Glove in the franchise's first 50 seasons — only the third outfielder to do so. Sixto Lezcano was the first outfielder to earn the award back in 1979 and Carlos Gómez was the other in 2013.

Brewers legendary first baseman George Scott won the most Gold Gloves, earning five straight in the American League from 1972-76. Another celebrated first baseman Cecil Cooper won a pair in 1979 and '80. The only other Brewers player to earn a Gold Glove was Hall of Fame shortstop Robin Yount, who was honored in 1982.

"He's unbelievable, he really is, teammate and fellow outfielder Christian Yelich said last year. "He's a gamer and I love playing with him.

"I think we all thought he deserved to have won one last year [2018]. But the thing about LoCain is he doesn't care about those things."

Manager Craig Counsell agreed. "In my opinion, his defense was better last year than the year before if that's possible," the skipper shared. "His defense won us a number of games."

Cain recorded 20 Defensive Runs Saved for the second straight season, finishing runner-up among non-catchers to the Nationals' center fielder Víctor Robles (22).

In 2018, Cain tied Boston's Mookie Betts with 20 Defensive Runs Saved to lead Major League outfielders.

Cain also finished sixth in the majors with a 2.2 Defensive WAR, right behind Cleveland's Roberto Pérez, Arizona's Nick Ahmed and Robles, each at 2.6.

Cain, who battled thumb, knee and ankle injuries throughout last season, had an off-year at the plate, batting .260 with 11 home runs and 48 RBI while stealing only 18 bases. But the nagging injuries did not affect his ability in the field, committing only two errors in 313 total chances over 148 games.

He injured his thumb in May, swinging the bat in a game against the Mets. In August, he fouled a ball off his knee against the Pirates. And in September, following a homer against the Padres, he felt some discomfort in his ankle as he rounded the bases.

But heading into 2020, he said he is healthy and ready.

"I didn't feel right until December," Cain pointed out. "That's when I was able to work out. I now feel healthy. I did a lot of physical therapy. My knee and ankle feel really good. So does my thumb. It's been good throwing.

"I was banged up last year but we all were banged up, especially come September. If you're not hurting, you're not doing something right. You just have to play through stuff.

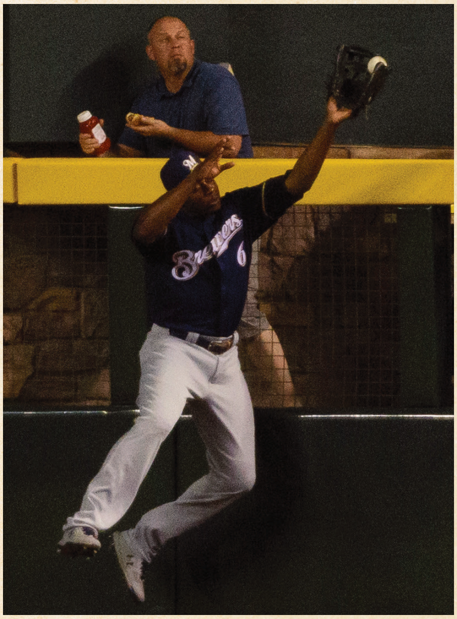
"I don't care how I feel, just put me out there. Couns (Manager Counsell) trusts me out there and that's all that matters."

Perhaps, it was said best by the Reds' new infielder Mike Moustakas, who played with Cain in both Kansas City and Milwaukee and watched him perfect his skills as a center fielder.

"I've seen everything this guy has done," Moustakas observed. "He's an unbelievable baseball player. Good things happen to guys who play hard and play the game the right way. Lo plays hard and does the right things."

And now, the rest of the baseball world has acknowledged that Cain is Gold Glove worthy.

"I pride myself on making plays out there," Cain replied with his signature smile.



LORENZO CAIN'S 5 NOTED HOME RUN-SAVING CATCHES OF 2019

MARCH 28: The Brewers were one out away from an Opening Day victory when Cardinals slugger José Martínez launched a fly ball that threatened to tie the game. Cain made a spectacular grab at the wall to rob Martinez of a home run to end the game. Cain earned Major League Baseball's 'Play of the Week' for March 28-31.

APRIL 15: With the Cardinals leading 2-0 in the top of the second inning and a runner on second base, Cain robbed Matt Carpenter of a home run with another sensational catch at the wall in right-center field. The Brewers rallied to win the game, 10-7, at Miller Park.

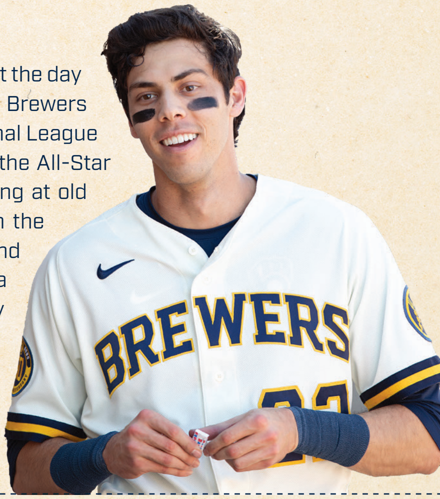
APRIL 26: In the bottom of the second inning of a Friday night game at Citi Field, Cain ranged back to deep right-center field, jumped and reached over the wall to rob Todd Frazier of the Mets of a home run. Cain became the first multiple 'Play of the Week' honoree in 2019 for April 22-28.

JULY 18: In the bottom of the first inning of a Thursday night tilt at Chase Field, Cain ranged back to deep right-center field and made a leaping catch at the wall to rob Eduardo Escobar of the Diamondbacks of a home run. Cain earned his third MLB 'Play of the Week' for July 15-21.

SEPTEMBER 28: Cain robbed the Rockies' Garrett Hampson of a two-run home run in the seventh inning to protect a 2-0 lead for Gio Gonzalez in Colorado. The Brewers eventually lost the game, 3-2. Afterwards, Gonzalez said of Cain's catch: "I don't know if we have to literally go to Tiffany's or wherever we have to go to buy this Gold Glove for him. That guy deserves it."

Q&A with CHRISTIAN YELICH

as told to Adam McCalvy



Christian Yelich is unique in that he's a superstar who can pinpoint the day he became a superstar. It was July 19, 2018, the day before the Brewers began a second half that would end with them winning the National League Central. Yelich had been good enough in the first half to make the All-Star team, but he was dissatisfied. So, he spent the afternoon looking at old video and wound up altering his stance to stand more erect in the batter's box. What followed was one of the most potent second halves in MLB history, a National League MVP Award, and a follow-up in 2019 in which he became the 10th player in history to top 40 homers and 30 steals, only to have his season end abruptly when he fractured his right kneecap on a foul ball with less than three weeks to go. Yelich talked before and after that injury about success and how injury can take it away.

Q: Do you remember what made you go to the video that day?

A: I don't. I really don't. For whatever reason, I wanted to try something, and I had an idea that this might make me a better player. I mean, players experiment with stuff all the time. It doesn't mean they're going to stick with it. But I think people are always trying to find ways to get better, and for me, it wasn't necessarily unfamiliar to me. It's the way I used to do it when I was a kid and in high school. I got away from it a little bit in pro ball because the Marlins wanted me to spread out and get in my legs more. And it worked -- I was still a pretty good player. I wasn't playing at the level I am now, but I was still playing at a pretty high level. So, it wasn't necessarily a bad thing.

Watching what I was able to do in pro ball when I was successful, watching the balls I was able to drive, I thought the adjustment to a taller stance would give me a chance to repeat that and get in that position more often than not. I was probably watching at-bats from Miami and maybe a little from the beginning of 2018 with the Brewers when I was able to really do damage. I thought to myself, 'What do I have to lose?' So, I tinkered with it.

I think now I'm able to use my body the correct way and I get everything out of what I have. I'm not the strongest or the biggest guy that runs out there, but I think I use my body really well. Letting that athleticism take over, letting the natural gifts take over, that's what I was trying to accomplish. And I felt comfortable with it because it was something I did when I was younger.

Q: Doesn't it drive you crazy playing a sport in which your livelihood depends on the tiniest of adjustments?

A: Baseball is tough, man. It's such a mental grind. I think you just have to be convicted in what you do. You have to really believe it. I feel like when you get into trouble in a baseball season is when you're trying so many different things, you're grabbing at something, and you don't have a baseline of 'This is what I do, and I'm good.' When things go haywire on you, and you start grabbing at straws, that's when it spirals. When you struggle in baseball as a hitter, we have to ease our mind and go to our keys: 'This is what I am, and I need to find a way to get back to that.' When you don't have that, you try everything. You've got a new stance, a new swing, a new approach, every day. That's when everything hits the fan because there's nothing to go back on. That isn't what I was doing. I had an idea of what I wanted to accomplish. Whether I was going to be able to do it or not, who knew.

But in general, in baseball you just have to deal with failure. There's no way around it. Even the guy who wins the battle title ever year and gets 650 at-bats and gets hits 200 times, you're going back to the dugout 450 times. You know what I mean? So even if you have the best season in the league, you're still going to suck a ton. You just have to be able to deal with that.

Q: Here's another thing I wonder about: In many endeavors, there is a fixed goal at the end. In baseball, there are World Series rings and the Hall of Fame, but the former is so dependent on the people around you, and the latter is so far down the road. How do you manage the sense that you are always chasing something?

A: But that's how it has to be. You have to have that mindset. It's such a humbling game that as soon as you think, 'Oh, I've made it,' or, 'I'm doing it,' that's when you're going to start to struggle. You always have to have that drive in baseball. That hunger. You have to stay on guard against complacency and grind every day. Then you look up when it's all done. If you say, 'I've made it,' baseball is going to punch you in the face and you're going to go 0-for-20. That's just how it works. Why it happens? Who knows? It's just the way the game was designed and the way it happens.

That's why I was telling everybody in Spring Training, I didn't want 2019 to be labeled as my career year or the best I would ever do. Because who knows? Like, we'll know when I'm done playing and retired. That's when you can look back and go, 'OK, this was your best year, this was your second-best year' and so on. But until that point, you want to continue to try to get better.

Q: We've learned about you that you're often driven by doubters, by those who install artificial limits on what you can do. After one big game you smiled and said, 'I guess the regression didn't happen.' Where did that come from?

A: I think you're always looking for an edge as a player. The baseball season, it's so long, it's such a grind, it's so hard, that you need things that drive you. Whether you create them yourself or they are imposed on you, it's like you need something that's going to keep you going and get you through those long days, and those long stretches of games, and 162 games. Everybody has a different one. That just happens to be mine.

I was never one of those super-hyped guys coming out of high school or even in the Minor Leagues. Once I got to the big leagues it was like, 'Hey, good player, but, eh.' It motivated me. I ended up winning an MVP and had to hear a lot of people say there's no chance you'll ever do that again. It was almost like they were saying I got lucky. I think about that in the offseason every day. Every time I go to the gym to work out, every time I go to the cages. I get [ticked] off. I get really mad. Like, I'm getting mad talking about it right now. People just don't know the work that goes into it. They don't know what you're doing or what you're capable of. Whether you perform that that level or not, that drive is in there. That's just how I'm wired.

I'm sure those same regression questions will come next year. And eventually, they will be right. But that doesn't mean you can't still be a great player, you know what I mean? I'm not ever really outward about. There are very few people I actually have those in-depth conversations with. But it's what drives me. I don't know why.

Q: Was there one specific moment after winning the NL MVP Award that you realized, 'OK, my life is different now'?

A: It was just an accumulation. It slowly started to change. There have been times this year when I'll think, 'This is madness. This is crazy.' Just how quickly things have changed in day-to-day life. There are things I cannot do any more that I used to be able to do as far as walking around the city. Normal life is not the same anymore. It's all for great things, but it definitely changes your life and the demands on your time. Things that you have to do every day that you never had to worry about before.

Q: One of those things you chose to do is ESPN's Body Issue, and you said at the time that it was something you would have never agreed to three, four, five years ago. That you're a different person now. What do you like about this amended version of you?

A: I would like to think that I've handled all of this well. That I've handled it how I would have answered if somebody had asked me about it two years ago and told me it was going to happen. I've tried to really just embrace all the opportunities that have come along, because at the end of the day, your career is short no matter how long you play. The thing about that issue was I knew there was going to be positive and negative reaction, but I didn't care. It was something I wanted to do. It's not for everybody. That's fine. But it's not everybody else's life, it's my life, and sometimes you have to do what you want.

I've learned to accept the fact that you're not going to make everybody happy. That's what also has come with this platform – you have a lot of people who don't like you just because. They don't know you, they've never met you, they've never talked to you, but they don't like you. So be it. It's going to happen. It comes along with everything else. But mostly, it's all been great. I've enjoyed it and I don't think I've changed too much as a person. That's important to me.

Days after that chat, Yelich went down in the first inning of a game against his former team, the Marlins, when he fouled a ball off his right kneecap and fractured it. He got good news that he didn't require surgery, but would be sidelined for the rest of the Brewers' pennant push. Yelich was on crutches, standing in a sea of cameras, when he addressed reporters about his misfortune.

Q: How do you process the randomness of this? You work so hard for so many months, and it can end in one moment.

A: I think the hardest part of the whole thing was the 24 hours where I didn't know. There was a broad spectrum of outcomes and recovery times. To receive the good news of no surgery, it was on the better end. That was nice. It was a relief. Once I knew that, it was just about getting better and trying to get a full recovery.

It's life in sports. There's a lot of work that goes into being in a position like we were, but, hey, sometimes it just doesn't go in your favor. It's actually the first time I've ever broken anything in my life or had a real injury. It kind of sucks in that aspect, but it's pro sports, you know? Injuries happen. At times, it's just very unfortunate. It seems to be one of those things that's just not fair at the moment. Trust me, I had my pity party that night at the stadium. I felt terrible. I was down in the dumps. After leaving the stadium -- shower, put your street clothes back on, get going -- it's all just being positive and trying to get back. I haven't spent any time on 'Why me?' or "Why this?' It happened. I have no way to change it now so it's just about getting better, getting back out there.

A World of Reasons

It could be the dedicated faculty who deftly guide Beloiters on their college journeys. It could be the campus which is filled with spaces that foster collaboration. It could be our exceptionally diverse student body, which makes us a hub of national and global viewpoints in the heart of the Midwest.

75 YEARS OF SAUSAGE HISTORY

FAMILY OWNED SINCE 1945
Johnsonville

ONE DELICIOUS RIDE

1945

Ralph F. Stayer went to look at a store for sale in New Holstein. The owner wasn't there, so he bought a building in tiny Johnsonville instead.

Ralph chose to make sausage out of really great meat, instead of scraps like most butchers of the day.

When a customer switched his order from 40 lbs of hamburger and 5 lbs of brats to 40 lbs of brats and 5 lbs of hamburger, Ralph and Alice knew they had something.

1967

When their son, Ralph C. Stayer, graduated college, his professors encouraged him to become a physicist. He said, "Nope. I'm going home to make sausage with my Dad."

Soon, Ralph noticed the workers weren't especially motivated. He realized they weren't the problem. He was. So, he created The Johnsonville Way and made them responsible for everything.

1981

Johnsonville decided to advertise. They debated whether to feature ring bologna or bratwurst in what eventually became the iconic "Charlie Murphy" commercial.

Today, Johnsonville is America's #1 Sausage brand and for sale on five continents.

To our Members,
Customers and Fans,

The last 75 years have been an honor. Thank you, and here's to the next 75.

ALLAN H. “BUD” SELIG

Born: July 30, 1934
Retired: Prior to the 2015 season
Inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame: 2017
Brewers Career: 1970-1992

Selig was in the final weeks of his 22-year tenure as Commissioner of Major League Baseball in 2014 when the Brewers surprised him with a plan to retire No. 1 in honor of their founder. Selig spent five years trying to bring baseball back to Milwaukee after the Braves departed in 1965, finally succeeding on March 31, 1970, when a bankruptcy judge in Seattle pushed through the sale of the Pilots to Selig’s group. The Milwaukee Brewers were born, and Selig led them until 1992, when he became acting MLB Commissioner. His tenure was marked by labor peace, a technological revolution, competitive balance and an expanded postseason system, but Selig has always said his proudest accomplishment was making Milwaukee big league again. He was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 2017.

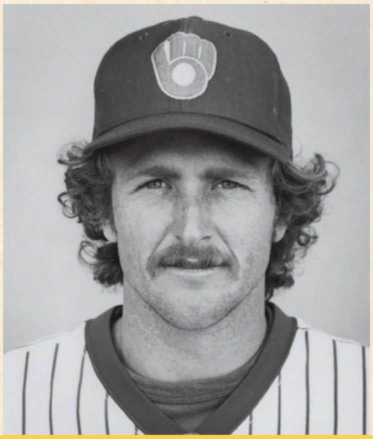
PAUL MOLITOR

Born: August 22, 1956
Retired: July 11, 1999
Inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame: 2004
Brewers Career: 1978-1992

An injury to Robin Yount opened a spot in the lineup for Molitor in 1978, and the man dubbed “The Ignitor” by then-manager George Bamberger seized it, beginning a 15-year run with Milwaukee. Molitor collected the first 2,281 of his 3,319 career hits in a Milwaukee uniform, including a banner season in ’82, when he led the AL with 136 runs scored while collecting 201 hits and batting .302 atop the lineup for the Brewers’ first pennant-winning team. In ’87, Molitor hit safely in 39 consecutive games for the seventh-longest streak in Major League history. His departure via free agency following the ’92 season was a difficult lesson in the changing economics of baseball, but Molitor and the Brewers had mended fences by ’99, his first year of retirement. In 2004, he became the second player inducted into the Hall of Fame wearing a Brewers cap.

19



ROBIN YOUNT

Born: September 16, 1955
Retired: May 29, 1994
Inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame: 1999
Brewers Career: 1974-1993

Selected third overall by the Brewers in the 1973 Draft and in the Majors a year later at 18, “The Kid” played his entire 20-year Major League career with Milwaukee and retired as the franchise leader in games played, singles, doubles, triples, home runs and RBI. Yount won the AL Most Valuable Player Award at two positions -- in ’82 as a shortstop and in ’89 as a center fielder after a right shoulder injury prompted a move to the outfield. At the time, he was only the second player to win the honor at multiple positions. On Sept. 9, 1992, the same day Selig took over as acting Commissioner of Major League Baseball, Yount became the 17th player in baseball history to record 3,000 career hits when he singled off Indians right-hander Jose Mesa at County Stadium. Yount became the first player to enter the National Baseball Hall of Fame as a Brewer on July 25, 1999.

ROLLIE FINGERS

Born: August 25, 1946
Retired: August 9, 1992
Inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame: 1992
Brewers Career: 1981-1985

The man who made the handlebar mustache famous spent the final four seasons of his Hall of Fame career in a Brewers uniform and was one of baseball's first relief aces. Acquired in a December 1980 blockbuster trade with the Cardinals that also netted starter Pete Vuckovich and catcher Ted Simmons, Fingers won both the AL Cy Young Award and AL Most Valuable Player Award in strike-shortened '81, the first pitcher to win both of his league's top honors since Oakland's Vida Blue in 1971. He was an All-Star again for the '82 AL champion Brewers, and on Aug. 21 of that season, became the first pitcher to log 300 saves. But Fingers was pitching in pain and missed the postseason with an arm injury, sparking a debate that continues to this day about whether the Brewers would have topped the Cardinals in the World Series with a healthy Fingers.

JACKIE ROBINSON

Born: January 31, 1919
Retired: By Major League Baseball in 1997
Inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame: 1962

The man who broke baseball's color barrier as a Brooklyn Dodger had his No. 42 retired by Major League Baseball in 1997. The Brewers honored Jackie Robinson in special pre-game ceremonies at County Stadium on July 18, 1997. Former Brewers pitcher Scott Karl was the last Brewer to wear No. 42 as a tribute to Robinson.

HANK AARON

Born: February 5, 1934
Retired: At the conclusion of the 1976 season
Inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame: 1982
Brewers Career: 1975-1976

"Hammerin' Hank" made his mark with the Milwaukee Braves from 1954-65, winning the National League MVP Award in '57 for Milwaukee's first World Series champion before the franchise left for Atlanta, where Aaron broke Babe Ruth's home run record. The Brewers acquired him in a November 1974 trade, and Aaron hit 22 of his 755 home runs in '75 and '76 before retiring. He knocked 40-or-more homers in eight seasons, drove in 100 or more runs 11 times and finished with a .305 lifetime batting average, with all-time records for RBI (2,297) and total bases (6,856). He was elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1982 with 97.8 percent of the vote.

BOB UECKER

Radio Broadcaster
50th Season

Bob Uecker enters his 50th season as a broadcaster for his hometown team, calling games on Newsradio 620 WTMJ and the Brewers Radio Network. He is celebrating his 65th year in baseball.

Known across the country as "Mr. Baseball," Uecker is highly respected throughout the industry. He will forever be recognized in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York after earning the prestigious Ford C. Frick Award in 2003, which is presented annually to a broadcaster for major contributions to the game. On July 27 that summer, he made one of the most memorable speeches in Hall of Fame history, leaving his audience, including former President George H.W. Bush, in tears from laughter.

In 2001, Uecker was inducted into the Radio Hall of Fame, where he joined baseball broadcasting luminaries Vin Scully, Mel Allen, Red Barber, Ernie Harwell and Jack Brickhouse, as well as other American icons, including Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Edward R. Murrow and Orson Welles. He was later inducted into the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association Hall of Fame in 2011 and the National Association of Broadcasters Broadcasting Hall of Fame in 2012.

In honor of Uecker's tenure as a broadcaster for the Brewers — which is the fourth-longest tenure of any broadcaster in the history of Major League Baseball — he is recognized throughout the Miller Park grounds. In 2003, Uecker became a member of the Brewers Walk of Fame, which is located near home plate on the plaza outside Miller Park.

Uecker has also been recognized locally throughout his career with the Brewers, including earning Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year honors five times. He was inducted into the Wisconsin Performing Artists Hall of Fame in 1993, the Wisconsin Broadcasters Association Hall of Fame in 1994, and the Wisconsin Sports Hall of Fame in 1998. In January 1995, he earned the Big B.A.T. Award from the Baseball Assistance Team at a dinner in New York City in recognition of his continued support of former Major League players who are in need of assistance.

JEFF LEVERING

Radio Broadcaster
6th Season
@JLevering4

Jeff Levering enters his sixth season calling games on the Brewers Radio Network after joining the organization in January 2015.

Levering joined the Brewers after two seasons (2013-14) as the lead broadcaster of the Triple-A Pawtucket Red Sox. He previously spent three seasons each as the radio voice and manager of public relations for the Double-A Springfield Cardinals (2010-12) and as director of broadcasting/media relations for the Class-A Rancho Cucamonga Quakes (2007-09).

Levering began his professional broadcasting career in 2005 as a field reporter and associate producer for FOX Sports West/Prime Ticket in Los Angeles, covering the Angels, Lakers, UCLA and other magazine-style shows.

LANE GRINDLE

Radio Broadcaster
5th season
@lanegrindle

Lane Grindle enters his fifth season with the Brewers after joining the radio broadcast team in February 2016. Throughout the season, he calls games with Jeff Levering during games missed by Hall of Famer Bob Uecker.

In addition to his broadcasting responsibilities, Grindle interviews players and team executives for his podcast, Brewers On Tap, and writes features for the Minor Details blog. He also handled public address announcements at Miller Park on a fill-in basis during the Brewers' postseason run in 2018.

Grindle joined the Brewers following 10 seasons (2006-15) behind the microphone for University of Nebraska baseball radio broadcasts on the Husker Sports Network. He spent his first two seasons (2006-07) as the Cornhuskers' pre/postgame host prior to being named play-by-play announcer in 2008. He also held positions as pregame host and sideline announcer for Nebraska football (2007-15) and host of a television show for Nebraska basketball (2008-13).

BRIAN ANDERSON

Play-By-Play Broadcaster
14th Season
@BAndersonPxP

Brian Anderson enters his 14th season with the Brewers after being named play-by-play announcer on January 10, 2007. He is a three-time recipient of the Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year Award (2013-14, 2017), which is presented by the National Sports Media Association.

Anderson joined the Brewers from the Golf Channel, where he was a play-by-play announcer from 2003-06. In his role there, he served as a host for a variety of the network's events, including the PGA Tour and Nationwide Tour. He also worked at FOX Sports Southwest, calling NCAA college basketball from 2002-07 and serving as sideline reporter for the San Antonio Spurs from 1999-2007, during which he saw the Spurs win three NBA championships.

From 1998-2000, Anderson handled Minor League and Little League Baseball telecasts for ESPN. His broadcasting career began with the Double-A San Antonio Missions of the Texas League — which is now the Brewers' Triple-A affiliate — serving as a play-by-play announcer on both radio and television from 1994-2003.

BILL SCHROEDER

Color Commentator
26th Season
@BrewersFanCamp

Bill Schroeder enters his 26th season with the Brewers as color commentator. He joined the television broadcast team in 1995 following a distinguished playing career as a catcher.

Schroeder spent eight seasons (1983-90) in the majors with the Brewers and California Angels, including a career year in 1987 in which he batted .332 with 42 RBI and a career-high 14 home runs. He caught the only no-hitter in franchise history, thrown by Juan Nieves in Baltimore on April 15, 1987 in the midst of the team's Major League record-tying 13-0 start. He was traded to the Angels following the 1988 campaign and later retired in 1990.

In recognition of Schroeder's long-serving tenure on the Brewers' broadcast team, he was enshrined on the Brewers Wall of Honor on July 17, 2015. In the organization's history, only Hall of Famer Bob Uecker has broadcast more games.

MATT LEPAY

Play-By-Play Broadcaster
7th Season
@mattlepay

Matt Lepay enters his seventh season with the Brewers calling play-by-play after joining the FOX Sports Wisconsin team in January 2014. He has earned Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year ten times, including the last two years. The award is presented by the National Sports Media Association.

Lepay has been the voice of Wisconsin Badgers football since 1994 and the 2019-20 season marked his 32nd as the men's basketball play-by-play announcer. In his time with the University of Wisconsin, Lepay has called six Rose Bowl Games and 22 NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament appearances, including the Badgers' trips to the Final Four in 2000, 2014 and 2015.

CRAIG COSHUN

Pre/Postgame Host
20th Season
@CraigCoshun

Craig Coshun enters his 20th season on Brewers telecasts as a pre/postgame host on FOX Sports Wisconsin. Previously a sideline reporter, he also handles play-by-play duties for several games each season and co-hosts the Brewers Extra Innings postgame show on Newsradio 620 WTMJ.

JERRY AUGUSTINE

Analyst
13th Season
@Jaugie46

Jerry Augustine enters his 13th season as an analyst with FOX Sports Wisconsin. He played his entire 10-year Major League career (1975-84) with the Brewers after being drafted out of the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse in 1974. In 1976, he was named to the American League All-Rookie Team.

DARIO MELENDEZ

Reporter/Host
3rd Season
@Dario_Melendez

Dario Melendez enters his third season on Brewers telecasts as a reporter and host of Brewers Live on FOX Sports Wisconsin. He handles the same responsibilities with the Milwaukee Bucks as host of Bucks Live and also co-hosts The Crossover with Ted Davis and Armen Saryan.

SOPHIA MINNAERT

Sideline Reporter
8th Season
@SophiaMinnaert

Sophia Minnaert enters her eighth season as a sideline reporter for Brewers broadcasts on FOX Sports Wisconsin. In 2018, she won an Emmy Award for Outstanding Crafts Achievement for On-Camera Talent – Sports Reporter. She is also in her third year as broadcast and digital features content director.

St. Jude patient Keeton

Keeton's family didn't give up. We won't either.

When Keeton was found to have blood cancer, his family was referred to St. Jude for treatment, where he's undergoing two-and-a-half years of chemotherapy. "St. Jude means everything to me," said Keeton's mom. "They're saving my baby's life." Treatments invented at St. Jude have helped push the overall childhood cancer survival rate from 20% to more than 80% since it first opened more than 50 years ago. We won't stop until no child dies from cancer.

ChildFund®

The promise inside Hazel is greater than the poverty around her.

Hazel doesn't know what she wants to be when she grows up, and that's just fine. At age 11, her job is to play, grow and learn. But for kids like her in the world's poorest places, poverty gets in the way.

ChildFund works in 24 countries to make sure children grow up healthy, educated, self-sufficient and safe, wherever they were born.

Thanks to generous supporters, our programs help children fulfill their potential. That's been our promise to them for 80-plus years.
